

"Caring about this community isn't an afterthought of the university. It's in our mission statement." Sister Jane Schilling told News reporter Judith Cebula. She teaches and serves as vice president at Martin.

The Rev. Boniface Hardin, founder and president of this university, deserves commendation for the vision he has for his university and community. His goal of serving others and seeking to make them successful is the cause of success in his efforts.

One of the most impressive aspects of Martin University is its financial foundation.

The money comes through tuition, private donations and foundation grants.

At a time when welfare plans are being debated to death, it is refreshing to see dedicated individuals responding to urban problems with so little dependence on government remedies.
